

InterAct Networks has an open access policy to encourage the circulation of our work widely without affecting copyright ownership, which remains with us. Our website, its contents and other works displaying the InterAct Networks logo are therefore licensed under the Creative Commons "Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivatives" Licence where some, but not all, rights are reserved by InterAct Networks.

Users are welcome to save, distribute and copy this work in any format without written permission, subject to the conditions set out in our licence which you can read in full at <http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-nd/2.0/legalcode> .

Please ensure you understand the conditions set out in licence. The following are some of the conditions imposed:

- InterAct Networks are credited in a prominent position
- The InterAct Networks website address (www.interactnetworks.co.uk) is published in a prominent position
- The text is used in full rather than altered or built upon (does not affect use of extracts under fair usage rights)
- The work is not resold
- InterAct Networks are informed of the use of the work

By downloading material from our website, you are confirming that you understand and accept the terms of the licence.

You are welcome to ask permission to use any of our work for purposes other than those covered by the licence.

InterAct Networks gratefully acknowledges the work of Creative Commons in enabling our adoption of their copyright approach. Find out more at www.creativecommons.org